THE PRINCETON-PRAHGE SYMPOSIUM ON THE HISTORICAL JESUS

“ILLUSTRATING HOW TO USE THE GOSPEL OF JOHN IN JESUS RESEARCH”

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 16—FRIDAY, MARCH 18
COOPER CONFERENCE ROOM, THE ERDMAN CENTER

Dale Allison (Princeton Seminary)
Paul Anderson (George Fox University)
Harry Attridge (Yale Divinity School)
Craig Barnes (Princeton Seminary)
Clifton Black (Princeton Seminary)
Lisa Bowens (Princeton Seminary)
James Charlesworth (Princeton Seminary)
Alan Culpepper (Mercer University)
Michael Daize (College of William and Mary)
Heath Dewrell (Princeton Seminary)
Shimon Gibson (University of North Carolina at Charlotte)
Craig Keener (Asbury Theological Seminary)
George Par森ios (Princeton Seminary)
Petr Pokorny (Evangelisch-Theologischen Fakultät der Karls-Universität, Prague)
Jan RosKovec (Karls-Universität, Prague)
Urban von Wahlde (Loyola University, Chicago)

Steering Committee:
Dale Allison, James Charlesworth, Petr Pokorny, and Jan RosKovec
The Princeton-Prague Symposium
March 16-18, 2016

“Illustrating How to Use the Gospel of John in Jesus Research”

Princeton Theological Seminary, Cooper Room in The Erdman Center (free and open to the public)

Wednesday, March 16th (Evening)
7:00 Craig Barnes (President, Princeton Theological Seminary) “Welcome, It is Well You Have Come”
7:25 James H. Charlesworth (Princeton Theological Seminary) “Introducing the Symposium’s Focus”
8:00 Dale Allison (Princeton Theological Seminary) “The Importance of the Gospels of Matthew and John for Jesus Research”
8:30pm Reception Dolores Clark Lounge, The Erdman Center

Thursday, March 17th
Chair: George Parsenios (Princeton Theological Seminary)
9:00 Paul Anderson (George Fox University) “Why John is Fundamental in Jesus Research”
9:45 Alan Culpepper (Mercer University) “The Chronology and Sequence of Events in John’s Account of Jesus’ Ministry”
10:30 Coffee break
11:00 Harry Attridge (Yale Divinity School) “Methodology for Finding Historical Knowledge in the Gospel of John?”
11:45 discussion

Chair: Heath Dewrell (Princeton Theological Seminary)
2:00 Shimon Gibson (University of North Carolina at Charlotte) “Archaeology, Architecture, and Pre-70 Jerusalem Described in John”
2:45 James H. Charlesworth Princeton Theological Seminary) “Two Jerusalem Pools (Mikvaot) and John’s Jesus”
3:30 coffee break
4:00 George Parsenios (Princeton Theological Seminary) “How and in What Ways Does John’s Rhetoric Reflect Jesus’ Rhetoric?”
4:45 discussion

Friday, March 18th
Chair: Lisa Bowens (Princeton Theological Seminary)
9:00 Petr Pokorný (Evangelisch-Theologischen Fakultät der Karls-Universität, Prague) “The Kingdom of God for the Historical Jesus and in John”
9:45 Jan Roskovec (Karls-Universität, Prague) “John’s Portrait of Jesus within Judaism”
10:30 Coffee break
11:00 Craig S. Keener (Asbury Theological Seminary) “The Baptizer: Jesus’ Teacher According to John”
11:40 discussion

Chair: Clifton Black (Princeton Theological Seminary)
2:00 Urban C. von Wahlde (Loyola University Chicago) “Judaism, the Historical Jesus, the “Signs Source,” and the Gospel of John”
2:45 Michael A. Daise (College of William and Mary) “Jesus and the Historical Implications of John’s Temple Cleansing”
3:30 coffee break
4:00 Discussion
Press Release

International Princeton-Prague Symposium on the Jesus Research and the Gospel of John to be held at Princeton Theological Seminary, March 16-18, 2016.

The field of Jesus research continues to develop, and the Princeton-Prague Symposia represent one of the most recent international ventures, bringing the research of top scholars in the world to bear on a subject of paramount interest: Jesus of Nazareth—his works, his words, and his mission. “Illustrating How to Use the Gospel of John in Jesus Research” marks the theme of this year’s Symposium, hosted by Princeton Theological Seminary, March 16-18.

Organized by the steering committee of Dale Allison, James Charlesworth, Petr Pokorný, and Jan Roskovec, these sessions, held in the Cooper Room in The Erdman Center, are free and open to the public. This event is hosted by James H. Charlesworth, who will also edit these papers for publication by Eerdmans.

The Princeton-Prague Symposia on the Historical Jesus

Steering Committee: Dale Allison, James Charlesworth, Petr Pokorný, Jan Roskovec